

Vanuatu Tropical Cyclone Outlook 2017 - 2018

What can you expect this Tropical Cyclone season?

A weak La Niña is expected to arrive towards the end of 2017, bringing above average rainfall and strong winds.

Vanuatu is anticipated to experience 1-3 Tropical Cyclones this coming season. This frequency of Tropical Cyclones is near average for Vanuatu during this season.

The most likely months of which there will be a Tropical Cyclone are January, February and March, in that order.

The intensity of the Tropical Cyclones are likely to be inbetween categories 2 - 4.

National Disaster Management Office (NDMO) advises everyone to prepare cyclone response plans, have an emergency kit ready and hold regular Community Disaster Committee meetings during this cyclone season.

For more information on
Tropical Cyclones visit: www.vmgd.gov.vu

